

By lifting the band on media consolidation you will be causing a grave injustice to the American people by further allowing media conglomerates to report uncontested biases. The true enemy of the "truth" is not FCC regulation but rather the deregulation of media forums. By allowing consolidation of such forums you will be depriving the American public the opportunity to seek alternative views through a diverse media. In this you will be directly impairing America's ability to construct an informed opinion and that is where this deregulation is wrong. Through the Constitution the media is guaranteed the freedom of the press, but that freedom is subject to the rights of the people and through the lifting of the consolidation ban you will be depriving the people their fundamental right to the "truth."
